

Sunday Magazine—ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH—September 4, 1904

Page 13

An Untold Chapter of My Adventures
While Hunting
Pygmies in Africa.

VERNER ARBITRATING A TRIBAL WAR IN AN AFRICAN JUNGLE.

SAMUEL
P
VERNEE

(ONRE)

Rev. Samuel P. Verner Tells the Story of Difficulties Encountered in Securing for the World's Fair the Most Startling Ethnological Exhibit Ever Seen in Civilization—Arbitrated a Tribal War in one Instance and Bought a Cannibal Prisoner-Slave in Another—The Loneliness of Filled-Teeth Otabenga, Devourer of Human Flesh.

HAVE you seen Otalange's teeth?

They're worth the 5 cents he charges for showing them to visitors on anthropology hill out at the World's Fair.

Otalange is a cannibal, the only genuine African cannibal in America today. He's also the only human chatted. He belongs to the Exposition company. Step right up. There's no charge, except to see his teeth. He has the reputation of being a man eater and has on exhibition the identical molars and incisors with which it was had cables and such instruments as applied to the stars or planets. It is the only way of knowing the distance of any of the millions of worlds in space. The distance of the trip across the unknown was, though it seemed that it would be a mere trifle, a matter of millions of miles. From his native sphere under the heaviest trees, "Yerger" stepped out into the unknown, and he stepped into the problems of a hundred of his previous trips of exploration into the unknown.

[illegible][illegible]

[illegible][illegible]

RICH BED OF RADIUM FOUND IN CONNECTICUT

[illegible][illegible]